

GREATER BOCA YOUTH SOCCER ASSOCIATION

Boca United FC is pleased to announce their girls' 2016 class of players who have committed to college soccer programs.

On February 3rd, these future collegiate athletes put their pen to paper to make their dreams a reality.

Clemson University commit Dani Antieau said: "I'm very excited to head to Clemson this year. I feel I'm ready for the next step in my career and for a good challenge." Pointing to her playing in the prestigious ECNL this season, she added: "I think playing in the ECNL made me realize how much faster and more physical the playing is compared to other leagues. I only wish I could have played more years in the ECNL because I feel it has helped me even in this short time."

Jason Sardis, coach of the Boca United ECNL U18's, currently ranked #23 in the country by Top Drawer, said, "I am very proud and excited for the class of 2016 as they progress into the next chapter of their lives academically and athletically. I am confident that having the chance to compete in the ECNL has prepared them technically, tactically and mentally for what is expected of them at the collegiate level. The competition, speed of play and exposure that the ECNL offers to its teams and players is second to none in advancing and improving all areas of their development."

Boca United Director of Coaching Eric Eichmann noted ECNL currently is the only girls league in the country that pushes its players and teams to compete at the highest level each week, similar to that of a collegiate schedule. "The experience and the natural player growth and development the ECNL offers is why the National Team Scouts and College Coaches recruit so heavily out of the ECNL player pool and is the reason our Women's Youth National Team rosters consist mainly of players competing at ECNL clubs. I am confident that the girls are prepared for the challenges ahead and will make immediate impacts at their respective schools on and off the field," he said.
