

DFAC – Banner Concussion Center Baseline and Advanced Baseline 11 years +

Concussion Baseline testing is a series of performance tests used to gather information about how a person functions in a normal state and is performed by the Banner Sports Medicine and Concussion Center. This information could then be used to compare performance if that person should ever sustain a concussion. It is important to note that this testing is not intended to be a diagnostic tool.

BASELINE: We administer the ImpACT test in a quiet area. The ImpACT test is a widely used neurocognitive test that measures multiple aspects of cognitive function including attention span, working memory, sustained and selective attention time, response variability, non-verbal problem solving and reaction time. It is a test that is used widely by the MLS, NFL, NHL, MLB and most Division I institutions.

ADVANCED BASELINE: This test package includes the ImpACT test (above) in addition to balance testing. The Concussion Balance Test (COBALT) is a balance test using force plate technology. This technology can determine sway and loss of balance under multiple conditions. COBALT testing is unique to the Banner Sports Medicine and Concussion Center. If the athlete were to sustain a concussion, the above tests could be repeated to ensure that the athlete is back to their baseline performance prior to returning to sports.*
