Coaching Philosophy

I work from an understanding that youth players are capable of comprehending a more inclusive soccer experience. By inclusive I mean that players are working on skill building, tactical progress, and technical savvy for greater interplay with teammates.

I value commitment, work ethic, creativity, problem solving, confidence, those who are lifelong learners, and having fun. I want to see my players grow as individuals, athletes, and teammates who develop better interpersonal skills within the backdrop of a multicultural community

“When a player learns to measure their performance against what they are capable of, they are ready to grow, both in soccer and in life.” – Coach Todd

Personal Note

I am a proud product of New Haven Youth Soccer that came back to give back to the sport and club I love. I was once a young upstart and now I'm an older, not too old, wise guy!
